Company balance sheet

Balance sheet solvency from 31.12.2023

The company will not fail with a probability of 98,5 % - 99,3 %.

The PD (Probability of Default) shows the probability that a debtor defaults within one year according to Basel II-criteria. The average in Germany amounts to 1,56 %. (as of: March 2024)

Note

The balance sheet solvency assessment is exclusively based on annual accounts information. Therefore it is possible that the default probability resulting from this, is deviating from the default probability of the Creditreform-Solvency Index^{2.0}.

Development of the balance sheet solvency

Asset turnover

The asset turnover provides information on the productivity of the capital employed. The higher the turnover ratio, the quicker the assets return to the company.

Equity ratio (%)

The equity ratio shows the percentage of the equity to total capital. The higher the equity ratio, the higher is the financial stability.

Payables outstanding (days)

The days payable outstanding show the average use of supplier credits. In general an increase of the days payable outstanding signifies a decrease of the financial situation.

Short-term capital tied up (%)

The capital tied up indicates to what extent the current liabilities can be covered by the generated sales revenues.

Return on assets (%)

The return on assets shows the interest rate of the total capital invested in a company. The company can make profits with the assets at disposal.

Return on sales (%)

The return on sales shows the profit generated from sales. An increasing return on sales combined with an unchanged sales price shows an increasing productivity.

Note

Please note that the balance sheet shown differs from the published balance sheet as it has been transferred into a structural balance sheet (analytical balance sheet) for evaluation purposes. The reason for this is that, from an analytical point of view, the options provided by law and the lawful accounting measures used by the company do not reflect the actual success of the period in the business sense and thus do not adequately portray the actual net assets, financial position and earnings of the company. For this reason certain balance sheet items are split, reclassified or regrouped.

German payment experience pool - DRD

The table contains the most up-to-date values. The graphics below show the historical values of the last year.

DRD-Index	198	Agreed term of payment	22
Number of suppliers	11	Days sales outstanding	17
Number of documents	57

A DRD-Index of 198 means "good payment behaviour".

Days sales outstanding = period of time between invoicing and payment of invoice, average for the last 12 months

Creditreform permanently collects and evaluates payment information from public sources, from the Creditreform-Debt Collection work or from contacting suppliers. In addition Creditreform receives the complete list of outstanding items from large companies every month and thus generates payment experiences for the German Debtor Register (DRD). The monthly added volume comprises several million payment documents.
